

Disclaimer

The material available on this website is designed to provide information only. The authors have made every effort to ensure that these pages are accurate. The information and statements are believed to be correct, and are offered in good faith. However, the authors shall not be liable for any loss, damage or inconvenience arising from inaccuracies.

If you believe that any of the information is inaccurate or needs updating please contact us via our e-mail link. The authors cannot accept responsibility for information contained in sites which we refer to by providing external links. We provide those links in order that you can do your own research and believe that the sites to which we provide such links are accurate and truthful but the contents of all such sites remain the responsibility of the organisations or individuals who maintain those sites.